Daleville Community Library Computer Use Policy

- The library's computers are for the use of current members of the Daleville Community Library. Non-members may use the computers TWICE. Membership is required to continue to use the computers after the two times.

- You may not save files to the computer's hard drive. You may use a flash drive to save files, save them on cloud computing services, or send them to yourself via e-mail.

- Installing or downloading software to the library's computers is prohibited.

- Use of the library computers is contingent on availability. There are no time limits on use unless others are waiting.

- Do not change any of the settings on library computers.

- Viewing of inappropriate material is prohibited. Violators will lose their access to library computers.
